FIVE LIGHT NIGHTS.

Week of Good Shows at the Grand Opera House,

A first class company will present "On the Stroke of Twelve" at the opera house tonight. The play itself has a strong plot and cleverly contrived climaxes. The dialogue is good and there is something doing all the time. The prison scene is one of the best effects of its kind. The fourth act is also new and novel and shows the interior of a counterfeiter's den under the disguise of a pawnbroker's shop.

The "High Rollers" Tuesday night is very much what the bill board pictures indicate. The burlesque is said to be very funny and the company a strong one. It is a good show of its kind.

In "A Jolly American Tramp" which will be the Thanksgiving Day play at the Opera house, is a heart to heart story that will touch every one who sees it. The comedy element in it is very pleasing and specialties galore aid in making it interesting. Songs that reach the heart, witticisms that bring smiles, comedy that causes laughter and sensational climaxes that thrill, are contained in "A Jolly American Tramp." The play is by E. E. Kider, author of "A Poor Relation."

Sergius Stepiak, the famous nihilist, political propagandist, and refugee, who several years ago toured this country as a lecturer, supplemented on the platform many of the harrowing details of the story told in his famous book, "Underground Russia." Through the efforts of Stepiak and others of his sort the dramatic quality in the life of the Russians has become pretty well known to people of the Western hemisphere, and there have been two or three dramatists that have been able to profit by the fact. A widely successful Russo-Siberian play was "Michael Strogoff." Now there is a new one, and it is coming this way. "For Her Sake" is the title of the latest of the plays having to do with Russian high life, with the moving sorrows of serfdom and the harrowing experiences of life in the Siberian convict mines. "For Her Sake" is credited with possessing an element which its predecessors lacked, and which doubtless more than anything else has contributed to its phenomenal success with theater-goers. It has the comedy element clearly and consistently ingrained in its plot, and it is said to be a high class comedy. The play will be seen at the opera house Friday night.

Next Saturday night, "The Eleventh Hour," a play which has done well elsewhere and should do the same here, will be the attraction.

Williams & Walker, the famous colored comedians, will be here with their own big show Wednesday night—"Sons of Ham." This is a first class attraction. The show has been given with success in all the large cities and the favorable press notices would fill a book. It is a Hurtig & Seamon company, and that generally means "nuff said."

PRODUCERS CONDEMN IT BUT HEARERS APPLAUD.

Ragtime Unpopular With Teachers But Admired by the Mass.

It has not been long since ragtime swept over the country like a great storm, embracing every one musical, from the whistling newsboy on the corner to the exponents of highest classical and non rhyme, but the epidemic was universal and there were but few who were not taken and entranced by its erratic strains.

Now there begins, however, to be a reaction. The jerky strains are no longer popular as they were, teachers and originators of melody and melodic description have condemned rag time and its influence, and all over the country musical organizations have banded together to do away with its insistent presence.

It is condemned as illegitimate, and a menace to all good musical production, performance and reception. It is said that a man who has written rag-time cannot compose good overtures, marches or song music.

None the less, ragtime continues to be popular with the great mass of Americans, though the teachers and writers are opposed to it.

Akron teachers are in the van of those who condemn it, and their opinions, in nearly every case coincide with that of Mrs. W. B. Collins, who stated to a reporter for the Democrat when asked for her opinion of ragtime: "I suppose ragtime has its uses, in its place, but its rightful places are not very numerous, in my opinion."

Other teachers who were seen said practically the same thing, and while the public at large has been captured and taken prisoner by the jerky, blood-quickenning strains that have been evolved from the primal music of the soul of the musical negro, teachers seem united in the opinion that ragtime is utterly and irredeemably the foe to good music.

PEEPER

May Throw Some Light on Murder Mystery.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 23.—(Spl.)—A sensational story was told the police which may throw some light on the two murder mysteries. For a month or so the people of the western part of the city have been bothered a great deal by an unknown character known as "Jack the Peep." He makes it his business to prow around at night and peep into windows.

Mrs. Wm. Springer, living at 1018 West Pennsylvania st., says about dark last night a tall man with a heavy black mustache and wearing a long mackintosh, jumped over her back fence and seized her as she stood in the back yard.

The man tried to choke her. Mrs. Springer being a powerful woman, beat her assailant off, but did not report her experience to the police until today. The police have begun to investigate the matter. Some people accept the theory that this strange man is the real stranger who has been getting in his work in the city for the past several months. The officers have a good description of the man.

RIPANS

EXCESSIVE SMOKING

A gentleman living in Colfax, W. Va., writes: "I was troubled with a ringing and buzzing sound in my ears, loss of appetite and shortness of breath, even after walking a short distance. I also had dyspepsia and constipation. I obtained a few boxes of Ripans Tablets and they helped me from the start. My doctor told me excessive smoking caused my ailments, but I am taking Ripans Tablets and burn at least 12 strong cigars a day, besides two pipefuls of tobacco, and feel perfectly well."

Ripans Tablets have proved to be an effective remedy in many cases similar to the above. They counteract the effects of excessive tobacco using. One or two of them taken on going to bed insure a good night's rest and in the morning there is a clear head and no coated tongue, bad breath or sour stomach. They soothe and strengthen the nerves, cure indigestion, heartburn and headache and wholly relieve that puffed up stuffy feeling.

There is scarcely any condition of illness that is not benefited by the occasional use of a R. I. P. A. N. S. Tablet, and the price is for 5 cents, does not bar them from any home or justify any one in enduring ill that are easily cured. For sale by druggists.

farewell sermon on "How to Hold Out Faithful." This will be the closing service of the revival meetings which have been in progress at the Third Church of Christ for over a month and which have resulted in many accessions to the church, besides a general quickening of its life in all departments.
